JAMES'S STORY

James is a married man with a daughter and plays videogames everyday for at least an hour. He is especially interested in casual games where he can relax and unwind from a stressful day. He is always looking for games that are easy to play and don't require a lot of skill or pressure to perform. He enjoys games that focus on the art and story of the game rather than the mechanics. His wife does not entirely understand why he plays games so much and he has a hard time explaining his reasoning's. James thinks that he can better show his wife why he plays games than to tell her. He uses Gamestream to find telltale games which are story driven games and are minimally interactive. James also uses Gamestream to find games that he can play with his daughter who is still too young to play mature games.

AMY'S STORY

He is always asking her to play video games with him but she has a hard time trying understanding the mechanics. Since she has little free time she can't spend time mastering a game so she can play with her boyfriend. As a solution she uses Gamestream to find games that are easily mastered and that she can play with her boyfriend. She now never has to worry about finding games that her and her boyfriend can play together.
